

Breaking Point: Steven Levitsky on Democracy's Struggle

Harvard professor and New York Times best-selling author Steven Levitsky, a leading expert on democracy and authoritarianism, tackles urgent questions of our time. As the United States navigates a transition toward multiracial democracy—a rare feat in history—this shift has triggered a backlash threatening the core of our political system. Why is democracy faltering here, but not in other wealthy, diverse nations? And how can we safeguard it?

Levitsky will highlight important challenges facing our country and call for bold political reform. The United States stands at a pivotal moment.

Sponsored in part by

OCTOBER 17, 2024

TILDEN ARTS CENTER AT CAPE COD COMMUNITY COLLEGE

7:30 PM

$10-$100

DISCOUNTED TICKETS FOR STUDENTS AND FACULTY

Audience members are invited to ask questions during the second half of the event.

Tickets at capecodspeakers.org

Steven Levitsky

David Rockefeller Professor of Latin American Studies and Professor of Government at Harvard University, New York Times best-selling author.

We stand at a crossroads:

Either America will be a multiracial democracy – or it will not be a democracy at all.

Moderated by Mindy Todd,
Managing Director of Editorial,
"The Point" Host and Producer, CAI