Brilliance DEFINED

There are moments in life that carry an undeniable emotional weight – the proposal being one of them. Marking the beginning of a new chapter, it is both a personal milestone and a shared promise. And while the setting and words may vary, one element remains timeless: the ring.

By KATERINA LEROY

Often seen as a symbol of commitment, the engagement ring remains a central part of the modern romance ritual. Selecting such a piece, however, requires thoughtful consideration. It is not simply a matter of style or trend but one of meaning, craftsmanship, and quality. An engagement ring should reflect the individuality of the person who wears it while also honouring the significance of the occasion. In the world of high jewellery, where discretion and craftsmanship still carry weight, Vikar Ahmed has positioned himself with a clear point of view. Each year, only a small number of pieces leave his workshop – a deliberate choice that allows for attention to detail and ensures each item is genuinely one of a kind. Among the recent highlights from his studio is Glory of Eternity, a men's wedding band featuring over 34 carats of D-colour, internally flawless white diamonds. All seventeen stones are GIA-certified, making it one of the most technically refined and financially significant wedding bands created for men. Its companion piece – a woman's band from the same collection – carries more than 16 carats of diamonds, matched in quality and certification. Together, the two rings hold more than 50 carats of high-grade diamonds and were crafted in Germany for NFL star Deshaun Watson and his wife, influencer Jilly Anais, based in the United States. With two more pieces from this rare collection set for release, Vikar Ahmed continues to follow a clear path: producing work in limited quantity, with full attention to material integrity and execution – a direction increasingly rare in today's fast-paced luxury market.
