Greetings

I would like to convey my warmest greetings to everyone taking part in the Power of Inclusion 5.0.

This event offers a wonderful opportunity for leaders, advocates and changemakers to share their knowledge and experiences with respect to equity, diversity and inclusion. I am certain that everyone in attendance will appreciate this chance to connect with their peers and will benefit from the presentations planned for this year's edition of the conference.

I would like to thank the Council of Nigerian Professionals and Council of African Professionals for hosting this event and for celebrating the diversity that enriches our nation.

I wish you all a memorable experience.

The Right Honourable Mark Carney, P.C., O.C., M.P.
Prime Minister of Canada

Ottawa
2025

Je tiens à saluer chaleureusement toutes les personnes qui prennent part à la conférence Power of Inclusion 5.0.

Cet événement offre une merveilleuse occasion aux dirigeants, aux intervenants et aux acteurs du changement de mettre en commun leurs connaissances et leurs expériences en matière d'équité, de diversité et d'inclusion. Je suis persuadé que toutes les personnes qui participent à cette conférence seront reconnaissantes d'avoir la chance de tisser des liens avec leurs pairs et tireront profit des présentations prévues cette année.

Je remercie le Conseil des professionnels nigérians et le Council of African Professionals d'avoir organisé cet événement et de célébrer la diversité qui enrichit notre pays.

Je vous souhaite une expérience des plus mémorables.

Le très honorable Mark Carney, C.P., O.C., député
Premier ministre du Canada

Ottawa
2025

Greetings

September 6, 2025

I am delighted to extend my warmest greetings to everyone taking part in Power of Inclusion 5.0, organized by the Council of Nigerian Professionals and the Council of African Professionals.

Over the past five years, Power of Inclusion has become much more than an event. It has created a space where voices are heard, stories are shared, and change is sparked. This year's theme — "The Journey Within, The Impact Beyond"—is a powerful reminder that inclusion begins with each of us, but its impact reaches far beyond.

At the heart of this initiative is a belief that reflects Ontario's own values: that everyone deserves to feel seen and at home in their community. When we lift diverse perspectives and recognize the contributions of those who lead with purpose, we help build a province where belonging is not the exception—it is the norm.

À titre de représentante de la Couronne en Ontario, je tiens à souligner l'importance de ces espaces qui favorisent l'écoute, le dialogue et la solidarité. Chaque initiative qui encourage le rapprochement entre les cultures et célèbre les talents dans toute leur diversité façonne des communautés toujours plus équitables et bienveillantes. Je vous souhaite un événement des plus enrichissants!

Salutations cordiales,

Wednesday, August 20th, 2025

Dear the Council of Nigerian Professionals and Council of African Professionals:

It is my pleasure to extend warm greetings to everyone participating in Power of Inclusion 5.0.

Since their inception, both organizations have championed leadership, cultural celebration, and policy dialogue. Their efforts have created pathways for professionals, youth, entrepreneurs, and families to thrive, while enriching our communities. This year's theme, "The Journey Within, The Impact Beyond," is a powerful reminder that courageous leadership begins with reflection and purpose.

My sincere thanks go to the organizers, partners, volunteers, and sponsors whose dedication has made this celebration possible. May Power of Inclusion 5.0 spark new collaborations that continue to strengthen our shared future.

Wishing everyone a memorable and successful event.

Sincerely,

A Message from the Associate Minister of Small Business

SEPTEMBER 5, 2025

Power of Inclusion 5.0 - The Journey Within, The Impact Beyond

I am happy to express my support and best wishes to the Council of Nigerian Professionals (CNP) and the Council of African Professionals (CAP) for a successful Power of Inclusion 2025, and to congratulate CNP on its 7th anniversary.

Led by Premier Doug Ford, our government is committed to protecting and supporting Ontario's small businesses. Despite global economic challenges, Ontario remains dedicated to creating a business-friendly environment that encourages innovation, investment, and job creation.

We appreciate the important work of the councils in empowering professionals and entrepreneurs from African, Caribbean, and Black communities. Events like this are vital to building a province where everyone has the opportunity to succeed.

As you enjoy this landmark celebration of community and business, you're contributing to a stronger, more inclusive economy that fully reflects Ontario's potential.

Thank you for your continued efforts and dedication to supporting small business and entrepreneurship in our province. I wish all participants a memorable and engaging time at the event.

Sincerely,

To the Council of Nigerian Professionals and the Council of African Professionals,

It is with great admiration and sincere appreciation that I extend my heartfelt congratulations on the occasion of Power of Inclusion 5.0, taking place on September 5 and 6, 2025.

This year's theme, "The Journey Within, The Impact Beyond," is a powerful reminder that lasting change begins with introspection and grows through collective action. Your commitment to advancing leadership, equity, and inclusion is not only commendable—it is vital to the progress and well-being of our diverse communities across Canada.

The Council of Nigerian Professionals and the Council of African Professionals have established Power of Inclusion as a national platform for dialogue, empowerment, and transformation. Your work continues to inspire emerging leaders and affirm the value of every voice and story. I applaud your dedication to fostering belonging, opportunity, and resilience in all you do.

As your Member of Provincial Parliament, I celebrate with you and thank you for your ongoing contributions to a more inclusive and united society. Please accept my best wishes for a successful, impactful, and memorable event.

Warm regards,

Council of Nigerian Professionals & Council of African Professionals

Power of Inclusion Conference, Awards and Gala Event

Dear Friends,

It is my great honour to extend warm congratulations on the 5th anniversary of the Power of Inclusion Conference, Awards and Gala. This milestone reflects years of dedication to advancing equity, leadership, and community—a commitment that has inspired and empowered countless Canadians.

This year's theme, "The Journey Within, The Impact Beyond," is a powerful reminder that meaningful change begins with self-reflection and the courage to lead with authenticity. By fostering spaces for dialogue, understanding, and action, the Council of Nigerian Professionals and the Council of African Professionals are helping shape a Canada where inclusion is not just an aspiration, but a lived reality.

I am deeply humbled to be nominated for the POI Catalyst Award. To be recognized among such passionate changemakers is both a privilege and a motivation to continue striving for systemic change that uplifts every member of our diverse society.

On behalf of the City of Brampton, I congratulate all award nominees and recipients, and I thank you for your tireless work in transforming obstacles into opportunities for justice and progress. May the next chapter of your journey be as impactful as the last.

Please accept my warmest wishes for a memorable celebration and continued success in all your endeavours.

Message from Mayor Meed Ward

Good evening, everyone! I wish I were with you to celebrate the 5th anniversary of the Power of Inclusion Conference, Awards and Gala.

This evening is not just a celebration – it is a powerful statement of purpose. The 2025 theme, "The Journey Within, The Impact Beyond," reminds us that lasting, transformative leadership begins with deep self-reflection.

This gathering reflects a shared vision: to promote equity and empowerment for individuals of diverse cultural backgrounds within Burlington and even Canada.

This is a vision that the City of Burlington deeply values and continues to support. Our collective future depends on breaking down barriers and building systems where every individual can grow, lead, and make an impact.

Tonight, we are doing just that – changemakers who are not only succeeding in their fields but paving the way for others.

Thank you to the Council of Nigerian Professionals and the Council of African Professionals for championing this vital work. Your leadership is shaping a more inclusive and powerful tomorrow. One that honours every journey and amplifies every voice.

Thank you, and congratulations to all the honourees.

Sincerely,

Mayor's Message

On behalf of the Town of Milton, I am pleased to congratulate the Council of Nigerian Professionals and the Council of African Professionals on the fifth year of your successful event, Power of Inclusion.

This conference and gala are meaningful ways you continue to empower Canadian professionals, entrepreneurs, and youth of African heritage.

This year's theme — “The Journey Within, The Impact Beyond” — reminds us of how self-reflection can inspire bold leadership and transformational change. It embodies the values of equity, leadership, and community that you champion.

Congratulations on your continued success. I hope you enjoy this important event.

Sincerely,

A CALL TO
RISE, &
REDEFINE LEADERSHIP

Inclusion is not an accessory to leadership — it is its lifeblood.

When we launched the Power of Inclusion (POI) five years ago under the Council of Nigerian Professionals (CNP), we were driven by a burning question: What would our communities look like if every voice mattered — not as a box to be checked, but as a story to be heard, a hand to be held, a mind to be engaged?

POI was never meant to be just another event. It was — and remains — a movement born of necessity, a response to the silent gaps that have existed far too long in the leadership and social fabric of our nation. For too many, inclusion had been cosmetic. Diversity had become a buzzword. Representation was inconsistent at best.

We knew we needed a space that would not only see people — but center them. A space where Black, African, Caribbean, Indigenous, and racialized voices weren't tokens, but torchbearers. Where youth were not sidelined, but spotlighted. Where difference wasn't managed — it was celebrated.

In our first year, we shook the table. In year two, we built new ones. By the third, we created seats where none existed. And by the fourth, we began to redefine the very structure of who leads and who listens.

This year, as POI marks its fifth anniversary, we stand taller than ever — not just because of what we've built, but because of the inner work that has made the outer impact possible.

The Journey Within, The Impact Beyond

Our 2025 theme isn't just poetic — it's prophetic.

True change doesn't begin on stages or in boardrooms. It begins within. It begins in the quiet moments where we confront our fears, examine our values, and recommit to the kind of leader we dare to become. That's what this year is about — a celebration of those who have dared to reflect, so they can rise with clarity and courage.

When youth discover their voice, communities shift. When professionals examine their bias, organizations evolve. When leaders heal, nations transform.

This is the heartbeat of POI 5.0.

Our two-day gathering — featuring speakers, visionaries, cultural performances, and changemakers from all walks of life — is not simply a conference. It is a mirror and a megaphone. A mirror to look inward, and a megaphone to project our truth, values, and aspirations to the nation.

Not Just for Us — But for All of Us

Though birthed from African and Caribbean roots, POI was never meant to exist in a silo. It is a reflection of the Canadian mosaic — one where Indigenous wisdom, Asian brilliance, Latinx resilience, Middle Eastern heritage, and every cultural identity find common ground in the fight for equity and belonging.

Inclusion is not charity. It is character. It is not about inviting people into the room — it is about rebuilding the room entirely.

And this is why I extend this message not just as a founder or Chair, but as a fellow citizen — to all leaders, allies, and bridge-builders across this country:

Do not stand on the sidelines of inclusion. Stand within it.

Be intentional. Be uncomfortable. Be transformed.

Join us. Share your story. Hold space for another.

The Power of Inclusion is not just a platform — it is a promise. A promise that if we journey inward together, we will impact the world beyond us — together.

Breaking Barriers: Advancing Inclusivity in Mental Health Services for Racialized Communities in Canada

Olayinka Oguntuase, MEd, MSW, RSW

Mental health is an essential part of overall well-being, yet access to culturally appropriate and inclusive care remains a pressing challenge for racialized communities across Canada. As the population becomes increasingly diverse, with over one in five Canadians identifying as a visible minority, it is critical to recognize and address the unique mental health struggles these communities face; struggles often rooted in systemic inequities, migration stress, and cultural disconnection. Racialized individuals, including immigrants, refugees, and second-generation Canadians, commonly grapple with mental health issues that are both complex and compounded. Among them are depression, anxiety, post-traumatic stress, and racial trauma, often worsened by experiences of discrimination, economic marginalization, and lack of culturally sensitive services. For many, mental health support is not just under-accessed, it is actively distrusted due to previous negative encounters or culturally irrelevant models of care.

Isolation and identity loss are particularly prevalent, especially among immigrant and refugee populations. Individuals who leave behind familiar languages, customs, support systems, and professions often experience profound disorientation. For youth and young adults, navigating bicultural identities can lead to internal conflicts, strained family relationships, and identity confusion. For older adults, the impact of migration may be even more severe. Many experience deep social isolation, language barriers, and a lack of community engagement, all contributing to depression, loneliness, and cognitive decline. These concerns often go unspoken due to stigma or cultural norms that discourage open discussion of emotional or psychological distress.

Women from racialized communities may face gender-specific stressors, such as trauma from domestic violence, care giving burdens, and socio-economic dependency, while men may suppress emotional struggles due to cultural expectations around masculinity, leading to under diagnosis or misdiagnosis.

To move toward truly inclusive mental health care, Canada must go beyond surface-level multiculturalism. Inclusivity means ensuring that services are designed with and for racialized communities. It requires training practitioners in cultural humility and cultural safety, expanding the mental health workforce to reflect the populations it serves, and embedding anti-racist, anti-oppressive frameworks into practice .

Encouragingly, some progress is being made. Culturally grounded, community-based programs, many led by racialized practitioners and elders are emerging as safe, healing spaces. These initiatives integrate traditional practices, language, and spirituality, offering support that feels relevant and respectful

However, these efforts cannot stand alone.

Governments, institutions, and policy makers must invest in equitable funding, culturally responsive research, and sustained outreach. Data collection must become more inclusive, capturing the diverse realities within Black, Indigenous, and other racialized groups to inform policy and practice meaningfully.

Mental health care in Canada must reflect the people it seeks to serve. For racialized communities, healing begins with being heard, seen, and understood, not only as individuals, but as holders of rich cultural histories, resilience, and strength. Advancing inclusive mental health services is not only a matter of health equity, it is a moral imperative.

There are no perfect conditions to act for inclusion

By: Tamunodienye Meshileya

I've come to learn that inclusion isn't a project or a policy. Nor is it a catchy hashtag or a trendy training session. I strongly believe it is a deeply personal journey. A journey that begins inside us, long before it shows up in org charts or townhalls.

When I think of the Power of Inclusion, I think of the quiet choices we make when no one is watching. When we advocate for others and have nothing personal to gain. The times we speak up when silence would've been safer. The moments we feel the tension...the tension between belonging and bravery, and still choose to lean in.

This year's theme; "The Journey Within, The Impact Beyond", resonates deeply with me. Because before inclusion can be an organizational value, it has to be first a human value. And the "within" part? That's where the real work is. That's where I've had to confront my own biases, unlearn inherited norms, and sit in discomfort.

But here's the fact for me; discomfort is not the enemy. Indifference is.

Indifference looks away. It whispers, "not my problem". Indifference is a BIG problem. Because, it's subtle. Because, it often comes dressed as "neutrality" or "professionalism." Because, people don't see it as a problem, which is exactly the problem.

Indifference is dangerous because it allows systems of exclusion to survive unchecked. It lets biases fester under the radar. And worst of all? It drains the courage of those who do care, by making them feel like they're pushing a boulder up a hill alone.

I've come to believe that inclusion is about building systems where people are not just present, but powerful, they can influence. Not just welcomed, but wanted. Not just hired, but heard.

Everyone is responsible for inclusion. We all have a role to play. Our roles on inclusion cannot be delegated and only clap from the sidelines. It must be built into performance expectations, leadership competencies, and daily decision-making. If people feel accountable, they'll act accountable. We must shift to action from empathy. It is not enough to feel bad. Action is the antidote to indifference. That can be as small as correcting a microaggression, or as bold as redesigning a hiring process to reduce bias. It all counts.

Care enough to try. This is the journey within. Inclusion isn't charity, it is strategy. It's sustainability. That's how we go beyond!

Phylomène Zangio

Founder, New Brunswick Provincial Council of People of African Descent

SUB-THEME:

FROM MARGINS TO MOVEMENTS: THE POWER OF VOICE AND ADVOCACY

Phylomène Zangio is a visionary leader, bridge-builder, and tireless advocate for human rights who has transformed New Brunswick's social, political, and cultural landscape for more than three decades. Originally from the Democratic Republic of Congo, she has lived in New Brunswick since the late 1980s, blending resilience, academic excellence, and activism to advance justice and inclusion.

A graduate of Université de Moncton with degrees in Business Administration and Information Technology, Phylomène has founded and shaped cornerstone organizations. She established the New Brunswick Provincial Council of People of African Descent (CPPAANB), co-chaired the New Brunswick Women's Council, and helped found both the Francophone Ethnocultural Women's Collective and CAFI, supporting immigrant and minority women. Her motion recognizing the contributions of Black Acadians, introduced at the 2014 Convention of Acadie, culminated in official recognition at the 2019 World Acadian Congress.

As Chair of the New Brunswick Human Rights Commission, she spearheaded initiatives to combat systemic racism, promote municipal inclusion, and strengthen intersectional protections. In 2023, her leadership secured the unanimous adoption of a provincial motion recognizing the International Decade for People of African Descent.

Internationally, Phylomène has worked with the United Nations, contributing to CERD, CEDAW, and the Permanent Forum on People of African Descent. She has spoken at global forums in Geneva and New York, advocating for racial minorities and immigrant rights, while championing data-driven equity measures.

Her intergenerational leadership extends to education, where she helped revise Francophone Social Studies curricula to include Black and Indigenous histories. Recognized with multiple awards—including the Queen Elizabeth II Platinum Jubilee Medal, Canada's Top 100 Black Women, and the Top 25 Immigrants in the Maritimes—Phylomène remains a trailblazer. She is the first Black woman to chair the province's Human Rights Commission and continues to forge enduring pathways for justice, equity, and intercultural dialogue.

Youth Leadership Award

Celebrating the Power, Passion, and Promise of Young Changemakers

The POI Youth Leadership Award honours a young individual (aged 16–30) who is boldly shaping the future through advocacy, innovation, or community service. This emerging leader brings vision, energy, and authenticity to every space they enter—proving that age is no barrier to impact.

Whether speaking truth to power, launching social initiatives, or inspiring peers, the recipient of this award demonstrates the bold promise of tomorrow's leadership—rooted in identity, purpose, and courage.

“Do not wait for leaders; do it alone, person to person.”
— Mother Teresa

A powerful call to young changemakers to take initiative and lead from wherever they stand.

OreofeOluwa Dimeji

Young Leader in Service

OreofeOluwa Abraham Dimeji is a recent graduate of Craig Kielburger Secondary School and a remarkable young leader whose heart for service sets him apart. A proud member of the Milton community, OreofeOluwa has consistently demonstrated a deep commitment to giving back — embodying the spirit of servant leadership from an early age.

Whether volunteering with the Rotary Club of Milton, the Council of African Professionals (formerly the Council of Nigerian Professionals), or the African Caribbean Council of Halton, OreofeOluwa brings dedication, humility, and excellence to everything he does. His volunteerism spans diverse areas — from helping at unhoused shelters and cleaning tables at the Knights Table, to supporting Coldest Night of the Year (CNOY) walks and leading behind-the-scenes tech support for community events.

He is known for stepping up whenever needed — managing contacts, creating presentation slides, preparing the national anthem, and reading land acknowledgements. This commitment is more than a personal choice — it's a family tradition of service, which OreofeOluwa proudly carries forward.

As he prepares to pursue a degree in Computer Science at university, his future shines bright — fueled by a foundation of compassion, responsibility, and impact.

“Service is not just what I do — it's who I am.”

Sophia Philbert

Student Trustee

Sophia Philbert is a determined and forward-thinking student leader passionate about advocacy, inclusion, and student empowerment. In her most recent role as North Halton Student Trustee for the Halton Catholic District School Board during the 2024 to 2025 school year, she served as the voice of over 36,000 students at the board level, contributing to important policy discussions and ensuring student perspectives were involved in Board decision-making. Known as being an empathetic and proactive leader, Sophia works to create environments where every student's voice is heard and valued. She has enthusiastically embraced her role as Student Trustee in both her school and beyond, utilizing her various experiences and skills to create meaningful change in her community. Through positions such as Senior Girls Volleyball Team Captain, St. Francis Xavier CSS DECA Chapter President, Black Student Union Member, 2x DECA International Competitor and Provincial Champion, Volunteer Soccer Coach, and 4-year HCDSB Student Senator, Sophia understands that leadership, especially for students, is never one size fits all. She believes that as students, voices are powerful vehicles of change and recognizes the privileges of being in a leadership position that works to bring about both meaningful changes and valuable student input. Above all, Sophia is passionate about youth making a difference — by empowering others, championing for change, and leading with values of respect, compassion, and courage.

Charlie Ochu

2024-25 Student Trustee of the
Halton District School Board

Charlie Ochu is a Grade 12 student currently attending Oakville Trafalgar High School. His passions include science, learning, and leadership. From a young age, Charlie demonstrated a strong interest in leadership, which led to his nomination as his elementary school's Valedictorian and recipient of the Principal's Award for Student Leadership.

In high school, Charlie maintained his commitment to improving the educational environment for his peers and discovered that one of the most effective ways to make a positive impact was through the role of a Student Trustee. Initially hesitant when he learned about the position, Charlie pushed past his doubts, completed the application process, and proudly stepped into the role as the Halton District School Board (HDSB) Student Trustee for the 2024-25 school year.

During his time as a Student Trustee, Charlie has collaborated with charities such as the Halton Learning Foundation, attended conferences with fellow Student Trustees to discuss advocacy for positive change, co-chaired the HDSB Student Senate, and contributed to several Board-level initiatives.

Among the many lessons Charlie has gained from this experience, the values of perseverance, communication, and time management stand out as key takeaways from his service as the 2024-25 HDSB Student Trustee.

I confirm that my name is Charlie Ochu, and my title could be: 2024-25 Student Trustee of the Halton District School Board.

Tinuola Abimbola Akhere is a dedicated and registered Social Service Worker with over 25 years of experience serving the public. Her work is deeply rooted in a passion for health and wellness, and the empowerment of women, children, and families. Guided by the belief that “when you save a woman, you save the village,” she founded Raising the Village—a transformative initiative led by a team of professionals committed to uplifting women and families in Brampton and across Canada.

In 2018, Tinuola established Tinu Ark of Mercy, a not-for-profit organization officially incorporated in 2020. Since its inception, the organization has successfully launched impactful projects that continue to positively shape the community.

Alongside her nonprofit work, Tinuola maintains a vital role as a Social Worker with The Salvation Army, where she supports efforts to end homelessness and assists clients dealing with addiction and mental health challenges. Her unwavering commitment to advocacy and social support drives her ongoing mission to empower marginalized women and families through tailored programs, resources, and community engagement.

Tinuola also serves on the boards of several charitable and nonprofit organizations. She holds a Certificate in Nonprofit Management from Booth University, a Bachelor of Science in Business Management, and a Diploma in Social Service Work.

Sunita Mandi

Assistant Director, Care in a Long Term Care Home

Sunita Mandi: A Life of Resilience, Advocacy, and Compassion

Born in December 1984 in the Southwest Province of Cameroon. My early education in Cameroon laid the foundation for a persistent pursuit of opportunity, despite the cultural and linguistic obstacles that followed my move to France in 2001.

Due to my limited fluency in French, my mother and I made a brave leap to the United States where I earned my high school diploma and began my professional journey in nursing at Florida State University, securing my Practical Nursing License. But mysterious symptoms of fatigue, recurring high fevers, and chronic pain — made holding a steady job difficult. Undeterred, I relocated to Canada in 2009 and was diagnosed with lupus the following year.

After a period of depression, I refused to let lupus define my future. I found strength in advocacy, joining Lupus Ontario and volunteering with one of Canada's largest community agencies. I then became the Program Coordinator for the innovative Supports for Daily Living program in Mississauga. Which led me into supervisory positions across various Community Nursing Agencies, eventually serving as Assistant Director of Care in a Long Term Care Home. Today, I am a Nursing Supervisor, Diabetic Educator, Gentle Persuasive Approach for Dementia Educator, and Delirium Educator. Beyond my clinical work, I remain an unwavering advocate for those living with lupus — challenging stigma, advancing education, and championing affordability of medications and vaccines. My effort has gathered support from government officials and major pharmaceutical companies, pushing campaigns for a world with impartial access to care and a “Day Without Lupus.”

Samira Ewongkeng

Leader within her school's Student Government and SLICE

Samira Ewongkeng is a Grade 12 student based in Toronto, known for her passion for leadership, community impact, and youth empowerment. She currently serves as a leader within her school's Student Government and SLICE (Student Leadership in Catholic Education), where she leads with empathy and intention to foster a more connected and inclusive school environment.

Since 2022, Samira has taken on over 25 volunteer roles across the Greater Toronto Area, contributing more than 100 hours to events, cultural programs, and youth-focused initiatives. Her diverse experiences include serving as a STEM program facilitator, children's mentor, event planner, tour guide, MC, and sports coach—roles she approaches with energy, compassion, and a deep commitment to service.

Her volunteer journey began with the Council of Nigerian Professionals, where she supported major events as an usher, receptionist, and food assistant.

Samira is deeply committed to creating safe, welcoming spaces where all individuals feel seen and supported. Whether leading school programs, mentoring children with complex needs, or assisting at community centres and soup kitchens, she shows up with integrity, responsibility, and heart.

Looking ahead, Samira plans to pursue a dual path in business and computer science, with the goal of building systems and initiatives that uplift underrepresented communities and drive lasting change. For her, service isn't just an activity—it's a core part of her identity.

Esther Ijewere

Host, #GetTalkingWithEsther

Esther Ijewere is a Media Strategist, Social Impact Leader, and the Founder of Women of Rubies; a global platform spotlighting the stories of inspiring women and amplifying their voices. With a dynamic career spanning over a decade, Esther has used the power of storytelling and advocacy to drive inclusion, gender equity, and representation in media.

She is the host of #GetTalkingWithEsther, a digital talk series that explores media trends, personal branding, and societal change. As a columnist for The Guardian Nigeria and the visionary behind the Rubies Collective, she consistently creates platforms that foster visibility for changemakers, particularly underrepresented voices. Esther's work has earned her numerous recognitions, including Canada's Top 100 Black Women to Watch (2023) and MIPAD Global 100 Under 40.

Through her advocacy, media coaching programs, and public speaking, Esther empowers others to own their narratives and lead with authenticity. She believes in challenging stereotypes, building communities, and using digital media as a force for good. Her journey is a testament to resilience, service, and visionary leadership traits that continue to shape her impact across Canada, Nigeria, and beyond.

Maurice Imadu

Community Engagement Specialist with the City of Brampton

Maurice Imadu, widely known as Mc Morris, is a Nigerian-Canadian comedian, event consultant, and the Community Engagement Specialist with the City of Brampton. His appointment marks a proud milestone, reflecting not only his exceptional talent in the entertainment industry but also his unwavering dedication to community service.

Maurice has built a stellar reputation in both Nigerian and Canadian circles, captivating audiences with his quick wit, relatable humor, and inclusive approach. For years, his annual comedy showcase, My Hearing, has drawn diverse crowds, fostering connection through laughter. Beyond the stage, Maurice has consistently invested his time and skills in initiatives that uplift and unite his community, seamlessly blending entertainment with advocacy.

In his current role as Community Engagement Specialist, Maurice brings charisma, cultural insight, and strategic vision to strengthening relationships between Brampton's municipal leadership and its vibrant Nigerian and Afro-Caribbean communities. His work ensures diverse voices are not only heard but actively represented in the city's growth and governance.

Maurice's appointment has been met with resounding praise, with community members celebrating his elevation as a symbol of cultural representation, inclusion, and the power of grassroots leadership. His deep understanding of multicultural dynamics positions him as a bridge-builder, adept at fostering dialogue and unity.

Whether on stage or in the community, Maurice embodies the belief that engagement, humor, and cultural pride can transform relationships and inspire progress. His journey stands as a testament to passion, perseverance, and the limitless possibilities that arise when talent meets purpose.

Raliat Owolabi

Researcher, educator, wellness advocate, and creative storyteller

Raliat Owolabi is a researcher, educator, wellness advocate, and creative storyteller whose work centers Black women's health, lived experience, and systemic access to care. Drawing on her own journey as a caregiver, immigrant, and mother, she founded Styled Soul—a storytelling and wellness platform that celebrates healing, beauty, and community. Raliat is pursuing a PhD in Urban Health, with research examining how immigrant Black women navigate cancer care in Ontario.

Her career encompasses community-based research, policy analysis, teaching in Child and Youth Care, and leading initiatives that amplify the voices of underrepresented individuals. She is passionate about mentorship, cultural celebration, and supporting Black women and families in their journey toward wellness, visibility, and belonging.

Pauline Danquah

Inspirational Speaker | Social Policy Officer |
Wedding Planner

Pauline Danquah is a passionate advocate for social justice, human rights, and the empowerment of marginalized communities. Of Ghanaian descent and born in Canada, she is deeply committed to uplifting others and driving meaningful change through advocacy, leadership, and faith.

Originally from Brampton, ON, Pauline made history at Algoma University as one of the first students to complete a double major in Law & Justice and Political Science, and as the first Black female President of the Students' Union at the Sault Ste. Marie campus. She is also the visionary founder of Algoma's Black Graduation, an initiative that celebrates Black student excellence and amplifies Black voices. Now in its seventh year, this milestone stands as a powerful legacy of representation and pride; one she strives to preserve for generations of Black students to come. She later earned a Master's degree from Carleton University's Norman Paterson School of International Affairs (NPSIA), specializing in Health, Displacement, and Humanitarian Policy.

Professionally, Pauline serves as a Social Policy Officer in the Evaluation Branch at Indigenous Services Canada. Her work focuses on improving federal services and advancing equity and self-determination for First Nations, Métis, and Inuit communities.

Beyond her policy work, Pauline is an engaging speaker and storyteller, dedicated to Black excellence, anti-racism, equity, and inclusive education. She frequently speaks on faith, resilience, and equity, encouraging others to overcome adversity and create inclusive spaces. She is also a co-author for the book Pursued by Purpose, an Amazon #1 bestseller in Christian Theism, and looks forward to publishing her own book in the future.

In her free time, Pauline is a wedding planner, youth leader, and music enthusiast! Singing in a professional choir and playing the clarinet. Through every platform, she remains grounded in her mission: to uplift, educate, and inspire future generations through faith, purpose, and community empowerment.

Halima Ngasa

Founder, Halibbeb's Parenting Spot

Halima Ngasa is a Child Development Expert, Parenting Coach, and Facilitator, who is deeply committed to walking alongside parents, offering guidance rooted in empathy, experience, and cultural relevance.

Through her work with community partners and Halibbeb's Parenting Spot, she supports families in navigating the everyday realities of raising children and helps parents understand the 'why' behind behaviour, recognizing that at the heart of every action is a child trying to communicate.

She believes in the power of family, that when we nurture, protect, and uplift the family unit, we give children the strongest foundation to thrive. She advocates for parenting practices that keep families together, that strengthen bonds and that equip parents to raise confident, emotionally healthy children within the safety of love, culture, and understanding.

Her mission includes strengthening, empowering, supporting, and contributing to the smooth functioning of family life by leveraging the strengths already within each household. This allows parents to learn, unlearn, and relearn strategies in a world that is often unfamiliar to our cultural norms and traditions. As she often says, "keep our children out of the system" not out of fear, but by equipping families with tools, clarity, and connection, where parents feel supported and children feel understood.

She volunteers with CNP, PEP International and VST. She is a recipient of the Black Excellence Award from the Government of Ontario for her outstanding support in making a difference in our community. Halima is married with two children.

Prof. Akolisa Ufodike

Associate Professor at York University

Dr. Akolisa Ufodike, FCPA, is an Associate Professor at York University, cross-appointed to the School of Public Policy and Administration. A Chartered Professional Accountant and Certified Fraud Examiner, he made history as the first Black Fellow of the accounting profession (2013) and the first Black certified director with the ICD.D designation (2015) in Alberta's history. In 2022 he made history again – this time as the first Black Albertan appointed as a Deputy Minister (permanent secretary). Dr. Ufodike served as Alberta's Deputy Minister of Trade and later, Immigration and Multiculturalism. He is the founder of the John Ware Institute, which has placed more Black professionals on paid boards than any other institution in Canada.

In 2015, he was the first Nigerian in Canada to run for elected provincial office - contesting a nomination for Member of the Legislative Assembly (MLA) in Alberta. Though unsuccessful, he went on to chair the successful 2019 campaign of the Honourable Kelechi Madu—the first Nigerian elected as an MLA in Canada and the first Black Canadian appointed as a Justice minister. A former banker and public administration executive, he chaired the Economic Policy Directorate of a Nigerian presidential campaign and contested the gubernatorial primaries of a major political party in Anambra State in 2017. Dr. Ufodike remains deeply committed to building accountable institutions, inclusive economies, and next-generation leadership across Nigeria and Canada. He has been recognized for his distinguished academic and public service contributions with both the Queen Elizabeth II Platinum Jubilee Medal and the King Charles III Coronation Medal.

Catalyst Award

Honouring Trailblazers Who Rewrite the Rules and Redefine What's Possible

The POI Catalyst Award celebrates an extraordinary individual whose bold and inclusive leadership has ignited systemic transformation. These leaders of leaders are secure in who they are, grounded in their values, and unafraid to extend a helping hand to all—without bias or favoritism. They see people, hear their stories, celebrate their identities, and work alongside everyone to create a better, more equitable world.

In education, policy, health, business, or activism, the honouree has not only challenged entrenched norms but dismantled barriers, reshaped narratives, and built new pathways toward justice and belonging. Their approach is action-oriented, turning ideals into measurable impact, and transforming resistance into lasting momentum.

This is leadership that doesn't wait for change—it creates it. Through fearless conviction and a vision rooted in inclusion, they inspire communities, influence decision-makers, and light the way for others to rise.

“Never doubt that a small group of thoughtful, committed citizens can change the world; indeed, it's the only thing that ever has.” — Margaret Mead

This award is for the game-changers—the ones who lead with courage, humanity, and the unshakable belief that together, we can change the world.

Phylomene Zangio

Founder, New Brunswick Provincial Council of People of African Descent

Phylomène Zangio is a visionary leader, bridge-builder, and tireless advocate for human rights who has transformed New Brunswick's social, political, and cultural landscape for more than three decades. Originally from the Democratic Republic of Congo, she has lived in New Brunswick since the late 1980s, blending resilience, academic excellence, and activism to advance justice and inclusion.

A graduate of Université de Moncton with degrees in Business Administration and Information Technology, Phylomène has founded and shaped cornerstone organizations. She established the New Brunswick Provincial Council of People of African Descent (CPPAANB), co-chaired the New Brunswick Women's Council, and helped found both the Francophone Ethnocultural Women's Collective and CAFI, supporting immigrant and minority women. Her motion recognizing the contributions of Black Acadians, introduced at the 2014 Convention of Acadie, culminated in official recognition at the 2019 World Acadian Congress.

As Chair of the New Brunswick Human Rights Commission, she spearheaded initiatives to combat systemic racism, promote municipal inclusion, and strengthen intersectional protections. In 2023, her leadership secured the unanimous adoption of a provincial motion recognizing the International Decade for People of African Descent.

Internationally, Phylomène has worked with the United Nations, contributing to CERD, CEDAW, and the Permanent Forum on People of African Descent. She has spoken at global forums in Geneva and New York, advocating for racial minorities and immigrant rights, while championing data-driven equity measures.

Her intergenerational leadership extends to education, where she helped revise Francophone Social Studies curricula to include Black and Indigenous histories. Recognized with multiple awards—including the Queen Elizabeth II Platinum Jubilee Medal, Canada's Top 100 Black Women, and the Top 25 Immigrants in the Maritimes—Phylomène remains a trailblazer. She is the first Black woman to chair the province's Human Rights Commission and continues to forge enduring pathways for justice, equity, and intercultural dialogue.
